Dear Rich,

Further to my email below, please be advised the following:

- You have 23 work days of paid sick leave remaining on your scholarship that will extend the end date of your scholarship. This works out to 4.6 weeks of leave. In order for this leave to be processed, the attached form needs to be completed and approved by Maureen and forwarded to this office with you medical certificates. The new end date will be advised to you once the form has been processed.
- You are also entitled to 30 days accrued paid sick leave under the conditions of your award. However, this does not extend your scholarship end date. Again you will need to complete the attached form and Maureen will need to approve.

I hope this assists you & just a reminder that I work on Mon/Tues till 4.15pm & Weds till 2pm

Kind regards,

Dear Rich,

Firstly, I apologise for you not being able to get in contact with anyone. I was on leave until last Monday & the university was closed over the Xmas & New Year period.

Secondly, I am very sorry about your elbow injury & the associated pain.

I will advise you of your remaining sick asap, I just wanted to touch base with you to let you know I am actioning your request.

Kind regards,

Subject: Sick leave request

Dear research scholarships,

I have tried ringing twice and emailing over the weeks but have had no reply which is frustrating

Leslie birch said this is the best email to get you on

I am hoping to instigate and activate all of my remaining sick leave starting immediately as I have injured my elbow and find it hard to type and am in pain

I am wearing a brace and have had injections and prescribed pain killers.

I can provide a statement from my osteopath if needed

Maureen Ryan my principal supervisor is copied into this email and she supports the leave.

Could you please advise me how much sick leave I have for my arm to heal and also the final end/submission date of my phd

Kindly,

Rich McLean
